From the AuthorI've had many jobs in my life; flight instructor, commercial pilot, HS teacher, IT CEO, bed and breakfast owner and college professor. I've also helped hundreds of students to find their dream jobs."Conquer the Losing Attitude of Job Hunters" is the textbook I use to teach my students how to find, interview for, and secure a great job in their field! Let me help you find your dream job!Professor Tom LaurieAbout the AuthorFORWARDI've known Professor Laurie and have been working with his students for nearly ten years. Having known many educators over the years, I've always found Tom to be way ahead of the curve in terms of having a genuine interest in the well-being of his students following their college experience. He has always prided himself on fully understanding the local business market and staying in touch with the attributes (both knowledge and soft skills) of what employers are seeking in new graduates. With this in mind, I fully endorsed the notion of Tom's creating this book and I've enjoyed the finished product.Unfortunately there haven't been a great deal of quality publications that address the instinctive and intuitive aspects of a job search. The print and web publication world is full of fluff that doesn't resonate with the majority of the interested audience. Have you ever read an article or a book that kept your head nodding in agreement? That is what I found Tom's book did for me. Its simple and concise format cuts to the chase and drives at the important and attainable aspects of career searching, preparation, and execution.This book is a great preparation tool for a student just entering the employment world as well as a great refresher for someone who has been in the market for some time. I'm looking forward to future publications from Tom.Jason AlexanderEntrepreneur and Founder of Alexander Technology Group
