By Anthony Christov It is good for encouraging students to pursue all their options, but it is overly optimistic for young adults. This book fails to capture how the obstacles of life may hinder success. It is good to be all you can be, but not all of us are able to run a business, get excellent grades, participate in multiple clubs/organizations, and get into private schools without any help. The author makes it seem that it is all achievable without anyone's help, but simply by networking. This is just not realistic, however, it is great for inspiring optimism in the young generation. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Recommended reading! By DK Kelfer creates a guide with lots of information that most students don't know or have little knowledge of. The book helps to create a plan of attack to move you ahead of the pack. As a parent of a college sophomore, I enjoyed the read and after recommending it to my son, feel he has a leg up on the competition. He says he has already learned so much from the book and will keep using it throughout his college career and beyond as different opportunities come up. Thanks Jake for the hard work and paving the way for many to follow. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. MONEY!! By Customer This book not only contains valuable information, but it is a quick and easy-to-read reference book. I especially enjoy Kelf's Keys - quick inside tips that come from Kelfer's personal experiences. Kelfer does an amazing job of using his own experiences to give concrete examples of how to take the necessary steps to find your way to personal success. I really like how he explains there are multiple avenues of getting there - and we get to choose! Looking forward for more work from Kelfer in the future!

At a time when career and job opportunities are becoming increasingly competitive, it is essential to do all you can to show your professional and personal uniqueness. In Elevate Beyond, Jake provides strategies, tips, stories and resources to show how you can stand out in work and life! As a recent graduate from the University of Southern California, Jake knows what it is like to search for internships and jobs and find ways to stand out from his peers. After going to resume seminars, networking events, mock interviews, and doing over 100 professional informational interviews, Jake has unlocked valuable knowledge that can save you time and money and help take you to the next stage of your professional journey. In discussions with the CEO of MVMT Watches, a current NFL player for the New England Patriots, professors from USC, and professionals from Apple and the finance world, Jake shares stories and suggestions on how to elevate yourself beyond the competition. Each interview focuses on a different skill set and showcases how you can succeed in all aspects of life. Jake combines these lessons with his own experiences to teach you how to discover a career you are passionate about, become a champion networker, and use resume, interview and social media strategies to stand out from your peers and colleagues. A framework for career and life advancement, Elevate Beyond combines real world experiences with actionable exercises that make it easy for the reader to apply. Jake's lessons and useful exercises prove that anyone can stand out from the crowd and achieve their goals. The only shortcut in life is to start now, and Elevate Beyond provides you with both the tools and knowledge to get you started on your path to success. As part of his personal journey and mission to give back, Jake will be donating a percentage of all proceeds to Children's Hospital Los Angeles in honor of his good friend David Stroud who passed away after a four year battle with cancer.

From my personal perspective, Jake has done an excellent job of inspiring, teaching, motivating, and guiding people through the fundamentals of standing out and creating their own success. Kelfer's authenticity and passion to help people is evident as he delivers useful, real world stories and actionable exercises that make it easy for the reader to apply. If you really want to stand out and create a name for yourself, this is a must read. --Keith Russ, Principal at Ernst Young At a time when career and job opportunities are becoming increasingly competitive, it is essential to do all you can to show your professional and personal uniqueness. Kelfer does an outstanding job in this book by offering strategies, stories, tips, and resources about how individuals can find their passion and thrive. Drawing from professionals from multiple industries, Kelfer hits a home run. This accessible and informative book is mandatory reading for anyone who is looking to move beyond being ordinary to becoming and remaining extraordinary! --Tyrone Howard, UCLA Professor About the Author Jake Kelfer is a best selling author, high energy inspirational speaker and career elevation coach.
