A Feast of Information By mister_fusspot This is an extraordinarily thorough yet easily accessible survey of one of the world's most exhaustive recording careers. Aside from a few maddening typos (typical of all such books) you could not ask for a better-crafted discography. Perhaps an updated edition could include thumbnail images of the artwork -- at $[price] a pop, that seems like a reasonable request. Otherwise, this is essentially just a database that could be shifted to the web.

This volume is a complete discography of Ella Fitzgerald's music from her first recording with Chick Webb and His Orchestra to her last recorded soundtrack for the motion picture film The Setting Sun.

From Booklist A comprehensive survey that includes a chronological listing of all known recorded performances of both Ella Fitzgerald and Chick Webb (with whom Fitzgerald began her recording career in 1935); complete contents of LPs and CDs; and an annotated index of all of Fitzgerald's recorded songs.
